8. The Mongolian National Army, commanded by Marshal Choibalsan with Lieutenant General Pogodayev, Chief-of-Staff, contains the following units [redacted] 25X1
- 1st Infantry Division
 - 2nd Infantry Division
 - 3rd Cavalry Division, reformed from cavalry brigades
 - 1st Tank Division
 - 1st Mechanized Division (Soviet)
 - 2nd Mechanized Division (Soviet)
9. The 56th, 57th, 58th, 59th, 60th, 61st, and 62nd Units of the Frontier Guard Troops (HVD) were transferred to the direct command of the Soviet Army on 1 February 1948.
10. In March 1948, the Soviet Government ordered the demobilization of "senior age-groups" in the Soviet Army. However, this decree did not effect the officers and non-commissioned officers of the First Far Eastern Army or personnel of technical or special units of the First Far Eastern Army. New recruits have replaced those troops which were demobilized, while about 60 percent of the demobilized troops have been "voluntarily" attached to the sovkhoses and military establishments in the Primorskaya and Khabarovskaya region (oblast) and can be re-mobilized in a very short time.
11. The Birely (Bira/49°02'N, 132°28'E) Machine Construction Plant, the Komsomolsk Machine Construction Plant, the Khabarovsk Machine Construction Plant, Dalzavod and many other establishments are manufacturing military materials exclusively, and the First Far Eastern Army is now entirely independent of military supplies from western Russia.
12. The Pacific Fleet has also expanded and three or four Nerpa type submarines, which are manufactured at Dalzavod, join the Pacific Fleet monthly. The Coast Guard Fleet has been reinforced by an undetermined number of torpedo boats and Shchuka type submarines.
13. The air strength of the Eastern Front, including first and second line planes, is approximately 5,000 (?) planes. Air bases are being constructed in the northern regions of Eastern Siberia.
14. The Soviet population of Vladivostok, Voroshilov, Khabarovsk, and other large cities in southeastern Siberia regularly receive anti-air attack training and air-raid drills.
15. The Soviet Army has completed fortifications on Uruppu-to, Etorofu-jima, Kunashiri-shima, and Paramushiru-to in the Kurile Island group. The 56th Marinopolak Division, the 2nd Amphibian Brigade and part of the 4th Tank Division, under the over-all command of Major General Levashov, are stationed in the Kurile Islands.
16. The 1st Marine Brigade is stationed at Olga (43°43'N, 135°19'E). Units of the 2nd and 3rd Marine Brigades are in the region between Boshkarevo (50°57'N, 128°29'E) and Svobodny (51°23'N, 128°09'E). Some units of the 18th Corps moved to the east of the Novokiyevskiyaval (51°40'N, 128°54'E)-Spassk (14°37'N, 132°49'E) rail line. The headquarters of the 18th Corps is at Voroshilov. The Headquarters of the 19th Corps has been transferred to Krasnayareshka (61°50'N, 152°60'E); units of the 19th Corps have been moved north of the Inan River [redacted] 25X1
17. Lieutenant General P. T. Luknashin, who has been appointed commander of the air arm of the Eastern Front, inspected air units of the First Far Eastern Army in August 1948.
18. Colonel General Maksimov, Commander of the First Far Eastern Army, left for Sverdlovsk in July 1948 for a conference with Marshal Zhukov, Marshal Rokossovsky, Colonel General Dekhtyarev, and other military leaders.
